AV Communication Review Index

Volume 21, 1973

A

About television, Martin Mayer. Book reviewed by Arthur C. Pariente, 2 260-263

Accountability in education, Leon M. Lessinger and Ralph W. Tyler, eds. Book reviewed by James Conner, 2 253-256

Administration

articles: Cost evaluation of instructional strategies, 1 11-30; The management of instruction, 1 31-43

The age of discontinuity: Guidelines to our changing society, Peter Drucker. Book reviewed by Rex Stockton, 1 133-141

Aist, Eugene H. and Vernon S. Gerlach, The effect of visual prompting on learning, research abstract, 3 375

Alioto, Robert F. and J. A. Jungherr, Operational PPBS for education. Book reviewed by W. Patrick Leonard, 1 130-133

Alkin, Marvin C. See Baker, Eva L.

Ambrosino, Lillian. See Fleiss, David

An analysis of selected simulation games and the assessment of the subjective feelings of students and teachers who use simulation games in social studies instruction, James Joseph Harpstrite, research abstract, 1 157

The application of short-term video-tape therapy for the treatment of test anxiety of college students, Richard M. Suinn, research abstract, 3 376

Aptitude-treatment interaction

research abstracts: Filmed versus lecture methods of instruction as related to image-ability, 2 267; Internalization of filmic schematic operations in relation to individual differences, 2 265-266; The role of cognitive style variables in mediating the influence of aggressive television upon elementary school children, 2 266-267

Armstrong, Robert J., Terry D. Connell, Robert E. Kraner, and Wayne Roberson, The development and evaluation of behavioral objectives. Book reviewed by James Conner, 2 253-256

Arousal and reminiscence in learning from color and black/white audio-visual presentations, Frank H. Farley and Alfred D. Grant, research abstract, 4 489

Attitudes

articles: Selected findings from "The computer as a socializing agent: Some socio-affective outcomes of CAI, 3 311-325 research abstracts: An analysis of selected simulation games and the assessment of the subjective feelings of students and teachers who use simulation games in social studies instruction, 1 157; The application of short-term video-tape therapy for the treatment of test anxiety of college students, 3 376; Arousal and reminiscence in learning from color and black/white audio-visual presentations, 4 489; New bases for library and information services in metropolitan areas: Information usage; belief, attitudes, and exposure to the mass media, 2 270-271; The effects of computer-assisted instruction on student self-concept, locus of control, and level of aspiration, 1 153-154; Black stereotypes of non-black communicators: A descriptive study, 2 268-269; The comparative effectiveness of monochrome and color presentations in the facilitation of affective learning, 1 156; A comparative study of selected ethnic characteristics of information sources and their influence on the receiver, 3 379-380; A comparison of colour and black and white T.V., 4 489-490; The effect upon students' motivation of fit between student ability and the level of difficulty of CAI programs, 1 154-155

Audiotape. See auditory presentation

The audio-tutorial approach to learning, Third edition, S. N. Postlethwait, J. Novak, and H. T. Murray, Jr. Book reviewed by Robert M. Diamond, 1 127-129

Auditory presentation

articles: Effect of method in presenting visualized instruction, 4, 437-451; effectiveness of three visual media and two study formats in teaching concepts involving time, space, and motion, 2 233-241; Influence of meaningfulness, picture detail, and presentation mode on visual retention, 2 209-223; Pictorial and verbal media in self-instruction of procedural skills, 2 225-232;

research abstracts: A comparison of two methods of presenting occupational information, 1 157-158

Averson, Richard. See White, David

B

Baker, Eva L., and Marvin C. Alkin, ERIC/AVCR annual review paper: Formative evaluation of instructional development, article, 4 389-418

Ball, Samuel and Gerry Ann Bogatz, Research on Sesame Street: Implications for compensatory education, research abstract, 3 377-378

Barnouw, Erik, A history of broadcasting in America (three volumes): A tower in Babel, (volume I); The golden web, (volume II); The image empire (volume III). Books reviewed by Frank W. Norwood, 1 142-152

Bases for the selection of background colors for transparencies, article, Richard Lee Snowberg, 2 191-207

Beisenherz, Paul C., What instructional TV research says to the researcher, research abstract, 4 487-488

Black stereotypes of non-black communicators: A descriptive study, Andrea L. Rich and Dennis M. Ogawa, research abstract, 2 268-269

Blake, Rowland S. See Butler, David C.

Bogatz, Gerry Ann. See Ball, Samuel

Book reviews, Robert C. Snider, ed., 1 127-152; 2 243-263; John B. Haney, ed., 4 127-486

Books reviewed

About television, 2 260-263

Accountability in education, 2 253-256

The age of discontinuity: Guidelines to our changing society, 1 133-141

The audio-tutorial approach to learning, third edition, 1 127-139

The celluloid weapon: Social comment in the American film, 4 471-473

The development and evaluation of behavioral objectives, 2 253-256

Educational communication in a revolutionary age, 4 467-470

Educational futurism 1985: Challenges for schools and their administrators, 1 133-141

Educational resources management systems, 1 130-133

Educational system planning, 2 257-260

The electric mirror: Politics in an age of television, 2 260-263

Future shock, 1 133-141

A guide for improving visualized instruction, 2 243-246

A history of broadcasting in America: A tower in Babel (volume I); The golden web (volume II); The image empire (volume III), 1 142-152

Instructional systems development for vocational and technical training, 2 257-260

The making of a counterculture: Reflections on a technocratic society and its youthful opposition, 4 474-484

The natural mind: A new way of looking at drugs and the higher consciousness, 4 474-484

Operational PPBS for education, 1 130-133

Systems engineering applied to training, 2 257-260

Technology in education: Challenge and change, 4 483-486
Verbal learning research and the technology of written instruction, 2 247-252
Where the wasteland ends: Politics and transcendance in post-industrial society, 4 474-484

Booth, George David, The comparative effectiveness of monochrome and color presentations in the facilitation of affective learning, research abstract, 1 155-156

Butler, David C., Clarence Eric Ott and Rowland S. Blake, Cognitive scaffolding in the learning of foreign language vocabulary: An experimental study, research abstract, 3 374-375. Also see Wells, Russell F.

Butler, F. Coit, Instructional systems development for vocational and technical training. Book reviewed by Desmond L. Cook, 2 257-260

C

Campeau, Peggie, Selective review of the results of research on the use of audio-visual media to teach adults, research abstract, 2 267-268

The celluloid weapon: Social comment in the American film, David White and Richard Averson. Book reviewed by Robert W. Wagner, 4 471-473

Ciesla, Jerome L. See Okey, James R.

Cognitive scaffolding in the learning of foreign language vocabulary: An experimental study, David C. Butler, Clarence Eric Ott, and Rowland S. Blake, research abstract, 3 374-375 articles: Bases for the selection of background colors for transparencies, 2 191-207; Influence of meaningfulness, picture detail, and presentation mode on visual retention, 2 209-223 research abstracts: Arousal and reminiscence in learning from color and black/white audio-visual presentations, 4 489; The comparative effectiveness of monochrome and color presentations in the facilitation of affective learning, 1 156; A comparison of colour and black and white T.V., 4 489-490

Color

Communication behaviors as related to information control behaviors of black low-income adults, Brenda L. Dervin, research abstract, 2 269-270

Communication theory article: McLuhan's media charts related to the process of communication, 3 277-297

The comparative effectiveness of monochrome and color presentations in the facilitation of affective learning, George David Booth, research abstract, 1 155-156

A comparative study of selected ethnic characteristics of information sources and their influence on the receiver, Gary L. Hull, research abstract, 3 379-380

A comparison of colour and black/white T.V., Carol Reich and Alan Meisner, research abstract, 4 489-490

A comparison of reading and listening comprehension with rate of presentation controlled, article, Robert Q. Young, 3 327-336

A comparison of two methods of presenting occupational information, Randolph MacDonald, research abstract, 1 157-158

A comparison study to determine the effect on student learning of still visuals used for review of a televised lesson, Howard Wesley Schivera, 3 376-377.

Computer
articles: ITV, telephone, and computer as an instructional system: A feasibility study, 4 453-465 research abstracts: The development of a statistical experiment simulator, 1 155

Connell, Terry D. See Armstrong, Robert J.

Computer-assisted instruction
articles: Selected findings from "The computer as a socializing agent: Some socio-affective outcomes of CAI," 3 311-325 research abstracts: Delay of feedback and its effect on retention of three types of computer-assisted mathematics instruction, 1 154; The effects of computer-assisted instruction on student self-concept, locus of control, and level of aspiration, 1 153-154; The effect upon students' motivation of fit between student ability and the level of difficulty of CAI programs, 1 154-155; Paired students trained by computer assisted instruction, 1 153

Conner, James, book reviewer, 2 253-256
Content and instructional analysis for cognitive transfer tasks, article, M. David Merrill, 1 109-125
Cook, Desmond L., book reviewer, 2 257-269
Cost evaluation of instructional strategies, article, Gene L. Wilkinson, 1 11-30
Cunningham, Donald J., Evaluation of replicable forms of instruction: A classification of information needs in formative and summative evaluation, article 3 351-367; book reviewer, 2 247-252
Curtis, William H., et al., Educational resources management system. Book reviewed by W. Patrick Leonard, 1 130-133

D

David, Brother Austin, ITV, telephone, and computer as an instructional system: A feasibility study, article, 4 453-465
Davies, Ivor K., Task analysis: Some process and content concerns, article, 1 73-86
Delay of feedback and its effect on the retention of three types of computer-assisted mathematics instruction, Lorraine R. Gay, research abstract, 1 154
Dervin, Brenda L., Communication behaviors as related to information control behaviors of black low-income adults, research abstract, 2 269-270 Designs for the evaluation of teacher training materials, article, James R. Okey and Jerome L. Ciesla, 3 299-310
Developing and validating learning hierarchies, article, James R. Okey, 1 87-108
The development and evaluation of behavioral objectives, Robert J. Armstrong, Terry D. Connell, Robert E. Kraner, and E. Wayne Roberson. Book reviewed by James Conner, 2 253-256
The development of a statistical experiment simulator, Warren H. Thomas, research abstract, 1 155
Diamond, Robert M., book reviewer, 1 127-129
Dowaliby, Fred. See Marantz, Steven
Drucker, Peter, The age of discontinuity: Guidelines to our changing society. Book reviewed by Rex Stockton, 1 133-141
Dwyer, Francis M. Jr., Effect of method in presenting visualized instruction, article, 4 437-451; A guide for improving visualized instruction. Book reviewed by William G. Holliday, 2 243-246; A guide for improving visualized instruction, research abstract, 3 380

E

Edgar, Patricia, Social and personality factors influencing learning from film and television, research abstract, 4 488-489
Educational communication article: Infokinetics: The name of the game, 3 369-372 Educational communication in a revolutionary age, I. Keith Tyler and Catherine M. Williams, eds. Book reviewed by Gerald M. Torkelson, 4 467-470
Educational effects of Sesame Street on Israeli children (brief summary), Gavriel Salomon, research abstract, 3 378
Educational futurism 1985: Challenges for schools and their administrators, Walter Hack et al. Book reviewed by Rex Stockton, 1 133-142 Educational resources management system, William H. Curtis et al. Book reviewed by W. Patrick Leonard, 1 130-133 Educational system planning, Roger A. Kaufman. Book reviewed by Desmond L. Cook, 2 257-260
Educational television. See television
Effectiveness of three visual media and two study formats in teaching concepts involving time, space, and motion, article, Russell F. Wells, Adrian P. Van Mondfrans, S. N. Postlethwait, and David C. Butler, 2 233-241
Effect of method in presenting visualized instruction, article, Francis M. Dwyer, Jr., 4 437-451
The effect of visual prompting on learning, Eugene H. Aist and Vernon S. Gerlach, research abstract, 3 375
The effect upon students' motivation of fit between student ability and the level of difficulty of CAI programs, Ruth Miller and Robert D. Hess, research abstract, 1 154-155

The effects of computer-assisted instruction on student self-concept, locus of control, and level of aspiration, Ian D. Smith and Robert D. Hess, research abstract, 1 153-154

Effects of varying pictorial detail and presentation strategy on concept formation, article, Don A. Gorman, 3 337-350

The electric mirror: Politics in an age of television, Sig Mickelson. Book reviewed by Arthur C. Pariente, 2 260-263

ERIC/AVCR annual review paper: Formative evaluation of instructional development, article, Eva L. Baker and Marvin C. Alkin, 4 398-418

Evaluation

articles: Evaluation of replicable forms of instruction, 3 351-367; ERIC/AVCR annual review paper: Formative evaluation of instructional development, 4 389-418; Designs for the evaluation of teacher training materials, 3 299-310 research abstracts: Formative research in the production of television for children, 4 488; Similarities and differences in the research and evaluation processes, 3 380-381

Evaluation of replicable forms of instruction: A classification of information needs in formative and summative evaluation, article, Donald J. Cunningham, 3 351-367

F

Farley, Frank H. and Alfred D. Grant, Arousal and reminiscence in learning from color and black/white audio-visual presentations, research abstract, 4 489

Film

articles: A comparison of reading and listening comprehension with rate of presentation controlled, 3 327-336

research abstracts: Filmed versus lecture methods of instruction as related to image-ability, 2 267; Internalization of filmic schematic operations in relation to individual differences, 2 265-266; The relationship of screen-mediated violence to anti-social behavior, 1 159; The role of cognitive style variables in mediating the influence of aggressive television upon elementary school children, 2 266-267; Social and personality factors influencing learning from film and television, 4 488-489

Filmed versus lecture methods of instruction as related to image-ability, Steven Marantz and Fred Dowaliby, research abstract, 2 267

Fleiss, David and Lillian Ambrosino, An international comparison of children's television programming, research abstract, 1 158

Formative research in the production of television for children, Edward L. Palmer, research abstract, 4 488

Franzwa, Dale, Influence of meaningfulness, picture detail, and presentation mode on visual retention, article, 2 209-223

Fuller, Francis, and Brad Manning, Self confrontation reviewed: Conceptualization for video playback in teacher education, research abstract, 2 267-268

Future shock, Alvin Toffler. Book reviewed by Rex Stockton, 133-141

G

Games

article: Young children's use of an information source in self-instruction, 2 177-190 research abstract: An analysis of selected simulation games and the assessment of the subjective feelings of students and teachers who use simulation games in social studies instruction, 1 157;

Gay, Lorraine R., Delay of feedback and its effect on the retention of three types of computer-assisted mathematics instruction, research abstract, 1 154

Gephart, William J., Robert B. Ingle and Gary Saretsky, Similarities and differences in the research and evaluation processes, research abstract, 3 380-381

Gerlach, Vernon S. See Aist, Eugene H.

Goff, Robert J. See Pula, Fred John

The golden web, (volume II) Erik Barnouw. Book reviewed by Frank W. Norwood, 1 142-152

Goldstein, Bernard et al., New bases for library and information services in metropolitan areas: Information usage; beliefs, attitudes, and exposure to the mass media, research abstract, 2 270-271

Gorman, Don A., Effects of varying pictorial detail and presentation strategy on concept formation, article, 3 337-350

Grant, Alfred D. See Farley, Frank H.

A guide for improving visualized instruction, Francis M. Dwyer. Book reviewed by William G. Holliday, 2 243-246; research abstracts, 3 380

H

Hack, Walter, et al. Educational futurism 1985: Challenges for schools and their administrators. Book reviewed by Rex Stockton, 1 133-142

Harmon, N. Paul. See Tosti, Donald T.

Harpstrite, James Joseph, An analysis of selected simulation games and the assessment of the subjective feelings of students and teachers who use simulation games in social studies instruction, research abstract, 1 157

Hess, Robert D., and Maria D. Tenezakis, Selected findings from "The computer as a socializing agent: Some socioaffective outcomes of CAI," article, 3 311-325; also see Miller, Ruth and Smith, Ian D.

A history of broadcasting in America, Erik Barnouw. Book reviewed by Frank W. Norwood, 1 142-152

Holliday, William G., book reviewer, 2 243-246

Hull, Gary L., A comparative study of selected ethnic characteristics of information sources and their influence on the receiver, research abstract, 3 379-380

Hurlock, Judith A. See Hurlock, Richard E.

Hurlock, Richard E. and Judith A. Hurlock, Paired students trained by computer assisted instruction, research abstract, 1 153

I

The image empire (volume III), Erik Barnouw. Book reviewed by Frank W. Norwood, 1 142-152

Individual differences. See subjects, characteristics of Influence of meaningfulness, picture detail, and presentation mode on visual retention, article, Dale Franzwa, 2 209-223

Information sources

research abstracts: A comparative study of selected ethnic characteristics of information sources and their influence on the receiver, 3 379-380; Communication behaviors as related to information control behaviors of black low-income adults, 2 269-270; New bases for library and information services in metropolitan areas: Information usage; beliefs, attitudes, and exposure to the mass media, 2 270-271

Instructional Development

articles: Content and instructional analysis for cognitive transfer tasks, 1 109-125; Cost evaluation of instructional strategies, 1 11-30; Developing and validating learning hierarchies, 1 87-108; ERIC/AVCR annual review paper: Formative evaluation of instructional development, 4 389-418; Learner analysis: Some process and content concerns, 1 44-72; The management of instruction, 1 31-43; Task analysis: Some process and content concerns, 1 73-86; Varieties of analysis in instructional development: Introduction to the theme of this issue, 1 5-10

Instructional Materials

article: Evaluation of replicable forms of instruction, 3 351-367 research abstract: Selected review of the results of research on the use of audiovisual media to teach adults, 2 267-268

Ingle, Robert B. See Gephart, William J.

Instructional systems development for vocational and technical training, F. Coit Butler. Book reviewed by Desmond L. Cook, 2 257-260

Internalization of filmic schematic operations in relation to individual differences, Gavriel Salomon, research abstract, 2 265-266

An international comparison of children's television programming, David Fleiss and Lillian Ambrosino, research abstract, 1 158

ITV, telephone, and computer as an instructional system: A feasibility study, article, Brother Austin David, 4 453-465

J

Johnson, Paul E. See Rothkopf, Ernst Z.

Jones, George William, Jr., The relationship of screen-mediated violence to anti-social behavior, research abstract, 1 159

Jungherr, J. A. See Alioto, Robert F.

K

Kaufman, Roger A., Educational system planning. Book reviewed by Desmond L. Cook, 2 257-260

Keislar, Evan R., and Jean Phinney, Young children's use of an information source in self-instruction, article, 2 177-190

Kraner, Robert E. See Armstrong, Robert J.

L

Learner analysis: Some process and content concerns, article, Thomas M. Schwen, 1 44-72

Learner-paced. See self-instruction

Learning

articles: Developing and validating learning hierarchies, 1 87-108; Effectiveness of three visual media and two study formats in teaching concepts involving time, space, and motion, 2 233-241; Effects of varying pictorial detail and presentation strategy on concept formation, 3 337-350; Influence of meaningfulness, picture detail, and presentation mode on visual retention, 2 209-223; The motion variable in procedural learning, 4 419-436; Young children's use of an information source in self-instruction, 2 177-190

research abstracts: Cognitive scaffolding in the learning of foreign language vocabulary: An experimental study, 3 374-375; The comparative effectiveness of monochrome and color presentations in the facilitation of affective learning, 1 156; The effect of visual prompting on learning, 3 375

Lecture method. See teaching methods, comparison of Leonard, W. Patrick, book reviewer, 1 130-133

Lessinger, Leon M., and Ralph W. Tyler, Accountability in education. Book reviewed by James Conner, 2 253-256

Line drawing. See pictorial detail

Listening

article: A comparison of reading and listening comprehension with rate of presentation controlled, 3 327-336

M

MacDonald, Randloph, A comparison of two methods of presenting occupational information, research abstract, 1 157-158

The making of a counterculture: Reflections on a technocratic society and its youthful opposition, Theodore Roszak. Book reviewed by Rex Stockton, 4 474-482

Management, See administration

The management of instruction, article, Donald T. Tosti and N. Paul Harmon, 1 31-43

Manning, Brad. See Fuller, Francis

Marantz, Steven, and Fred Dowaliby, Filmed versus lecture methods of instruction as related to image-ability, research abstract, 2 267

Mass media

research abstracts: Communication behaviors as related to information control behaviros of black low-income adults, 2 269-270; A comparative study of selected ethnic characteristics of information sources and their influence on the receiver, 379-380; Network children's programming: A content analysis of black and minority treatment on children's television, 3 378-379; New bases for library and information services in metropolitan areas: Information usage; beliefs, attitudes, and exposure to the mass media, 2 270-271; Social and personality factors influencing learning from film and television, 4 488-489

Mayer, Martin, About television. Book reviewed by Arthur C. Pariente, 2 260-263

McLuhan's media charts related to the process of communication, article, S. D. Neill, 3 277-297

Media, See instructional materials

Meisner, Alan. See Reich, Carol

Mendelson, Gilbert and Morissa Young, Network children's programming: A content analysis of black and minority treatment on children's television, research abstract, 3 378-379

Merrill, M. David, Content and instructional analysis for cognitive transfer tasks, article, 1 109-125

Methods. See teaching methods

Mickelson, Sig, The electric mirror: Politics in an age of television. Book reviewed by Arthur C. Pariente, 2 260-263 research abstract: Self-confrontation reviewed: Conceptualization for video playback in teacher education, 2 268.

Microteaching

Miller, Ruth, and Robert D. Hess, The effect upon students' motivation of fit between student ability and the level of difficulty of CAI programs, research abstract, 1 154-155

Minorities

research abstracts: Black stereotypes of non-black communicators: A descriptive study, 2 268-269; Communication behaviors as related to information control behaviors of black low-income adults, 2 269-270; A comparative study of selected ethnic characteristics of information sources and their influence on the receiver, 3 379-380; Network children's programming: A content analysis of black and minority treatment on children's television, 3 378-379 research abstract: Cognitive scaffolding in the learning of foreign language vocabulary: An experimental study, 3 374-375

Mnemonics

Motion

articles: Effectiveness of three visual media and two study formats in teaching concepts involving time, space, and motion, 2 233-241; The motion variable in procedural learning, 4 419-436

research abstract: Internalization of filmic schematic operations in relation to individual differences, 2 265-266

The motion variable in procedural learning, article, Ronald W. Spangenberg, 4 419-436

Motivation. See attitudes

Murray, H.T., Jr., See Postlethwait, S. N.

N

The natural mind: A new way of looking at drugs and the higher consciousness, Andrew Weil. Book reviewed by Rex Stockton, 4 479-482

Neill, S. D., McLuhan's media charts related to the process of communication, article, 3 277-297

Network children's programming: A content analysis of black and minority treatment on children's television, Gilbert Mendelson and Morissa Young, research abstract, 3 378-379

New bases for library and information services in metropolitan areas: Information usage; beliefs, attitudes, and exposure to the mass media, Bernard Goldstein et al., research abstract, 2 270-271

North of the Namaskeag; A case study in viewer-active television, Erik Van de Bogart, research abstract, 1 155-156

Norwood, Frank W., book reviewer, 1 142-152

Novak, J. See Postlethwait, S. N.

O

Ogawa, Dennis M. See Rich, Andrea L.

Okey, James R., Developing and validating learning hierarchies, article, 1 87-108

Okey, James R., and Jerome L. Ciesla, Designs for the evaluation of teacher training materials, article, 3 299-310

Operational PPBS for education, Robert F. Alioto and J. A. Jungherr. Book reviewed by W. Patrick Leonard, 1 130-133

Ott, Clarence Eric. See Butler, David C.

P

Paired students trained by computer assisted instruction, Richard E. Hurlock and Judith A. Hurlock, research abstract, 1 153

Paisley, Matilda B., Social policy research and the realities of the system: Violence done to TV research, research abstract, 1 158-159

Palmer, Edward L., Formative research in the production of television for children, research abstract, 4 488

Pariente, Arthur C., book reviewer, 2 260-263

Perception
article: Bases for the selection of background colors for transparencies, 2 191-207

Phinney, Jean. See Keislar, Evan R.

Pictorial and verbal media in self-instruction of procedural skills, Harold R. Strang, article, 2 225-232

Pictorial detail articles: Effect of method in presenting visualized instruction, 4 437-451; Effects of varying pictorial detail and presentation strategy on concept formation, 3 337-350; Influence of meaningfulness, picture detail, and presentation mode on visual retention, 2 209-223

Pictorial presentation
articles: Effect of method in presenting visualized instruction, 4 437-451; Effectiveness of three visual media and two study formats in teaching concepts involving time, space, and motion, 2 233-241; Effects of varying pictorial detail and presentation strategy on concept formation, 3 337-350; Influence of meaningfulness, picture detail, and presentation mode on visual retention, 2 209-223; Pictorial and verbal media in self-instruction of procedural skills, 2 225-232 research abstracts: A comparison of two methods of presenting occupational information, 1 157-158; A comparison study to determine the effect on student learning of still visuals used for review of a televised lesson, 376-377; A guide for improving visualized instruction, 3 380; Internalization of filmic schematic operations in relation to individual differences, 2 265-266

Postlethwait, S. N., N. Novak, and H. T. Murray, Jr. The audio-tutorial approach to learning, Third edition. Book reviewed by Robert M. Diamond, 1 127-129

Postlethwait, S. N. See Wells, Russell F.

Programed instruction article: Effect of method in presenting visualized instruction, 4 437-451

Pula, Fred John and Robert J. Goff, eds. Book reviewed by Eldon J. Ullmer, 4 483-486

R

Reading
article: A comparison of reading and listening comprehension with rate of presentation controlled, 3 327-336

Reich, Carol and Alan Meisner, A comparison of colour and black/white T.V., research abstract, 4 489-490

The relationship of screen-mediated violence to anti-social behavior, George William Jones, Jr., research abstract, 1 159

Research
articles: ERIC/AVCR annual review paper: Formative evaluation of instructional development, 4 389-418; Research and the systems approach as methodologies for education, 2 165-175 research abstracts: The development of a statistical experiment simulator, 1 155; Formative research in the production of television for children, 4 488; A guide for improving visualized instruction, 3 380; The relationship of screen-mediated violence to anti-social behavior, 1 159; Social policy research and the realities of the system: Violence done to TV research, 1 158-159; Similarities and differences in the research and evaluation processes, 3 380-381; Self-confrontation reviewed: Conceptualization for video playback in teacher education, 2 268; Selected review of the results of research on the use of audio-visual media to teach adults, 2 267-268; What instructional TV research says to the researcher, 4 487-488

Research and the systems approach as methodologies for education, article, Richard A. Stowe, 2 165-175

Research on Sesame Street: Implications for compensatory education, Samuel Ball and Gerry Ann Bogatz, research abstract, 3 377-378

Research abstracts, Don H. Coombs, ed., 1 153-159; Richard E. Clark, ed., 2 265-271; 3 373-381; 4 487-490

Rich, Andrea L. and Dennis M. Ogawa, Black stereotypes of non-black communicators: A descriptive study, research abstract, 2 268-269

Roberson, E. Wayne, See Armstrong, Robert J.

The role of cognitive style variables in mediating the influence of aggressive television upon elementary school children, Sally A. W. Thomas, research abstract, 2 266-267

Roszak, Theodore, The making of a counterculture: Reflections on a technocratic society and its youthful opposition; Where the wasteland ends: Politics and transcendance in post-industrial society. Books reviewed by Rex Stockton, 4 476-482

Rothkopf, Ernst Z., and Paul E. Johnson, Verbal learning research and the technology of written instruction. Book reviewed by Donald J. Cunningham, 2 247-252

S

Salomon, Gavriel, Educational effects of Sesame Street on Israeli children (brief summary), research abstract, 3 378; Internalization of filmic schematic operations in relation to individual differences, research abstract, 2 265-266

Saretsky, Gary. See Gephart, William J.

Schivera, Howard Wesley, A comparison study to determine the effect on student learning of still visuals used for review of a televised lesson, research abstract, 3 376-377

Schwen, Thomas M., Learner analysis: Some process and content concerns, article, 1 44-72; also see Stowe, Richard A.

Selected findings from "The computer as a socializing agent: Some socioaffective outcomes of CAI," article, Robert D. Hess and Maria D. Tenezakis, 3 311-325

Selective review of the results of research on the use of audio-visual media to teach adults, Peggie Campeau, research abstract, 2 267-268

Self confrontation reviewed: Conceptualization for video playback in teacher education, Francis Fuller and Brad Manning, research abstract, 2 267-268

Self-instruction

articles: Designs for the evaluation of teacher training materials, 3 299-310; Effect of method in presenting visualized instruction, 4 437-451; Effectiveness of three visual media and two study formats in teaching concepts involving time, space, and motion, 2 233-241; Pictorial and verbal media in self-instruction of procedural skills, 2 225-232; Young children's use of an information source in self-instruction, 2 177-190

Silvern, Leonard C., Systems engineering applied to training. Book reviewed by Desmond L. Cook, 2 257-260

Similarities and differences in the research and evaluation processes, William J. Gephart, Robert B. Ingle and Gary Saretsky, research abstract, 3 380-381

Slides

articles: Effect of method in presenting visualized instruction, 4 437-451; Effectiveness of three visual media and two study formats in teaching concepts involving time, space, and motion, 2 233-241; Effects of varying pictorial detail and presentation strategy on concept formation, 3 337-350; Influence of meaningfulness, picture detail, and presentation mode on visual retention, 2 209-223

research abstracts: A comparison of two methods of presenting occupational information , 1 157-158; Internalization of filmic schematic operations in relation to individual differences, 2 265-266

Smith, Ian D. and Robert D. Hess, The effects of computer-assisted instruction on student self-concept, locus of control, and level of aspiration, research abstract, 1 153-154

Snowberg, Richard Lee, Bases for the selection of background colors for transparencies, article, 2 191-207

Social and personality factors influencing learning from film and television, Patricia Edgar, research abstract, 4 488-489

Social policy research and the realities of the system: Violence done to TV research, Matilda B. Paisley, research abstract, 1 158-159

Spangenberg, Ronald W., The motion variable in procedural learning, article, 4 419-436

Still pictures

articles: Effect of method in presenting visualized instruction, 4 437-451; Effectiveness of three visual media and two study formats in teaching concepts involving time, space, and motion, 2 233-241; Pictorial and verbal media in self-instruction of procedural skills, 2 225-232; Young children's use of an information source in self-instruction, 2 177-190

research abstracts: A comparative study of selected ethnic characteristics of information sources and their influence on the receiver, 3 379-380; A comparison study to determine the effect on student learning of still visuals used for review of a televised lesson, 3 376-377; Internalization of filmic schematic operations in relation to individual differences, 2 265-266

Stockton, Rex, book reviewer, 1 133-142; 4 474-482

Stowe, Richard A., Research and the systems approach as methodologies for education, article, 2 165-175

Stowe, Richard A. and Thomas M. Schwen, Varieties of analysis in instructional development, article, 1 5-10

Strang, Harold R., Pictorial and verbal media in self-instruction of procedural skills, article, 2 225-232

Subjects, characteristics of research abstracts: Black stereotypes of non-black communicators: A descriptive study, 2 268-269; A comparativ study of selected ethnic characteristics of information sources and their influence on the receiver, 3 379-380; The effect upon students' motivation of fit between student ability and the level of difficulty of CAI programs, 1 154-155; Filmed versus lecture methods of instruction as related to image-ability, 2 267; Internalization of filmic schematic operations in relation to individual differences, 2 265-266; New bases for library and information services in metropolitan areas: Information usage; beliefs, attitudes, and exposure to the mass media, 2 270-271; Research on Sesame Street: Some implications for compensatory education, 3 377-378; The role of cognitive style variables in mediating the influence of aggressive television upon elementary school children, 2 266-267

Suinn, Richard M., The application of short-term video-tape therapy for the treatment of test anxiety of college students. research abstract, 3 376

Systems approach. Also see instructional development article: Research and the systems approach as methodologies for education, 2 165-175

Systems engineering applied to training, by Leonard C. Silvern. Book Reviewed by Desmond L. Cook, 2 257-260

T

Task analysis: Some process and content concerns, article, Ivor K. Davies, 1 73-86

Teacher education article: Designs for the evaluation of teacher training materials, 3 299-310

research abstract: Self-confrontation reviewed: Conceptualization for video playback in teacher education, 2 268

Teaching methods, comparison of articles: A comparison of reading and listening comprehension with rate of presentation controlled, 3 327-336; Effect of method in presenting visualized instruction, 4 437-451; Effectiveness of three visual media and two study formats in teaching concepts involving time, space, and motion, 2 233-241; Effects of varying pictorial detail and presentation strategy on concept formation, 3 337-350; Influence of meaningfulness, picture detail, and presentation mode on visual retention, 2 209-223; ITV, telephone, and computer as an instructional system: A feasibility study, 4 453-465; The motion variable in procedural learning, 4 419-436; Pictorial and verbal media in self-instruction of procedural skills, 2 225-232; Young children's use of an information source in self-instruction, 2 177-190

research abstracts: Cognitive scaffolding in the learning of foreign language vocabulary: An experimental study, 3 374-375; A comparison of two methods of presenting occupational information, 1 157-158; A comparison study to determine the effect on student learning of still visuals used for review of a televised lesson, 3 376-377; Delay of feedback and its effect on retention of three types of computer-assisted mathematics instruction, 1 154; The effect of visual prompting on learning, 3 375; Filmed versus lecture methods of instruction as related to image-ability, 2 267

Technology in education: Challenge and change, Fred John Pula and Robert J. Goff, eds. Book reviewed by Eldon J. Ullmer, 4 483-486

Telephone

article: ITV, telephone, and computer as an instructional system: A feasibility study, 4 453-465

Television. Also see videotape

article: ITV, telephone, and computer as an instructional system: A feasibility study, 4 453-465

research abstracts: A comparison of colour and black and white T.V., 4 489-490; A comparison study to determine the effect on student learning of still visuals used for review of a televised lesson, 3 376-377; Educational effects of Sesame Street on Israeli children (brief summary), 3 378; Formative research in the production of television for children, 4 488; An international comparison of children's television programming, 1 158; Network children's programming: A content analysis of black and minority treatment on children's television, 3 378-379; North of the Namaskeag: A case study in viewer-active television, 1 155-156; The relationship of screen-mediated violence to anti-social behavior, 159; Research on Sesame Street: Some implications for compensatory education, 3 377-378; The role of cognitive style variables in mediating the influence of aggressive television upon elementary school children, 2 266-267; Social and personality factors influencing learning from film and television, 4 488-489; Social policy research and the realities of the system: Violence done to TV research, 1 158-159; What instructional TV research says to the researcher, 4 487-488

Tenezakis, Maria D. See Hess, Robert D.

Test anxiety

research abstract: The application of short-term video-tape therapy for the treatment of test anxiety of college students, 3 376

Thomas, Sally A. W., The role of cognitive style variables in mediating the influence of aggressive television upon elementary school children, research abstract, 2 266-267

Thomas, Warren H., The development of a statistical experiment simulator, research abstract, 1 155

Toffler, Alvin, Future shock. Book reviewed by Rex Stockton, 133-141

Torkelson, Gerald M., book reviewer, 4 467-470

Tosti, Donald T., and N. Paul Harmon, The management of instruction, article, 1 31-43

A tower in Babel (volume I), Erik Barnouw. Book reviewed by Frank W. Norwood, 1 142-152

Transparencies

article: Bases for the selection of background colors for transparencies, 2 191-207

Tyler, I. Keith, and Catherine M. Williams, eds. Educational communication in a revolutionary age. Book reviewed by Gerald M. Torkelson, 4 467-470

Tyler, Ralph W. See Lessinger, Leon M.

U

Ullmer, Eldon J., book reviewer, 4 483-486

V

Van de Bogart, Erik, North of the Namaskeag; a case study in viewer-active television, research abstract, 1 155-156

Van Mondfrans, Adrian P. See Wells, Russell F.

Varieties of analysis in instructional development, article, Richard A. Stowe and Thomas M. Schwen, 5-10

Verbal learning research and the technology of written instruction, Ernst Z. Rothkopf and Paul E. Johnson, eds. Book reviewed by Donald J. Cunningham, 2 241-252

Verbal Presentation

articles: Pictorial and verbal media in self-instruction of procedural skills, 2 225-232; Influence of meaningfulness, picture detail, and presentation mode on visual retention, 2 209-223; Effect of method in presenting visualized instruction, 4 437-451 research abstract: A comparison study to determine the effect on student learning of still visuals used for review of a televised lesson, 3 376-377

Videotape. Also see television articles: Effect of method in presenting visualized instruction, 4 437-451; The motion variable in procedural learning, 4 419-436 research abstracts: The application of short-term video-tape therapy for the treatment of test anxiety of college students, 3 376; A comparison of two methods of presenting occupational information, 1 157-158; Filmed versus lecture methods of instruction as related to image-ability, 2 267; Self-confrontation reviewed: Conceptualization for video playback in teacher education, 2 268

Violence

research abstracts: The relationship of screen-mediated violence to anti-social behavior, 1 159; The role of cognitive style variables in mediating the influence of aggressive television upon elementary school children, 2 266-267; Social policy research and the realities of the system: Violence done to TV research, 1 158-159

Visual presentation. See pictorial presentation

W

Wagner, Robert W., book reviewer, 4 471-473

Weil, Andrew, The natural mind: A new way of looking at drugs and the higher consciousness. Book reviewed by Rex Stockton, 4 479-482

Wells, Russell F., Adrian P. Van Mondfrans, S. N. Postlethwait, and David C. Butler, Effectiveness of three visual media and two study formats in teaching concepts involving time, space, and motion, article, 2 233-241

What instructional TV research says to the researcher, Paul C. Beisenherz, research abstract, 4 487-488

Where the wasteland ends: Politics and transcendance in post-industrial society, Theodore Roszak, Book reviewed by Rex Stockton, 4 476-482

White, David and Richard Averson. The celluloid weapon: Social comment in the American film. Book reviewed by Robert W. Wagner, 4 471-473

Wilkinson, Gene L., Cost evaluation of instructional strategies, article 1 11-30

Williams, Catherine M. See Tyler, I. Keith

Y

Young children's use of an information source in self-instruction, article, Evan R. Keislar and Jean Phinney, 2 177-190

Young, Morissa. See Mendelson, Gilbert

Young, Robert Q., A comparison of reading and listening comprehension with rate of presentation controlled, article, 3 327-336